BODIES

Are Identified as Mrs. O. P. Dailey and Step-Daughter

Mr. Alfred Lee Goes East to Claim the Remains

A SAD NEW YEAR'S DAY

Funerals of Many Victims of B. & O. Wreck are Held Tuesday in Wash- ington, D. C.

An Advocate special telegram from Washington Tuesday afternoon says: Two hitherto unidentified bodies at the morgue are declared by Dr. Charles H. Waters to be those of Mrs. Oliver Dailey and daughter, Thelma, of Newark, who badly mangled that positive identification is not possible. It is understood Mrs. Dailey's brother Alfred Lee will be here soon to identify the remains.

After the Advocate telephoned its special Washington dispatch to the home of Calvin Lee of Chatham, on Monday afternoon, in which the description of an unidentified woman was compared with that of Mrs. Oliver Dailey, which had been furnished the Advocate's Washington correspondent by this paper, Mr. Lee and daughter came to Newark and arranged to have Mr. Alfred Lee leave for Washington Monday night.

As stated Monday, the description of the unidentified woman tallied exactly with that of Mrs. Dailey except for the fact that the victim of the wreck wore a ring bearing the initials "S. M. C." Members of the family did not know why Mrs. Dailey should have a ring engraved with those letters though they felt sure from a description of the clothing, hair and teeth that it was Mrs. Dailey who had been killed. While in the Advocate office, a sister of Mrs. Dailey remembered that two of the initials stood for the name of Mr. Dailey's former wife and as she may have been known by her "middle" name, it may account for the possession by Mrs. Dailey of a ring stamped S. M. C.

Mr. Alfred Lee left for Washington first telegraphing the superintendent of the morgue that he was on the way to claim the bodies of Elder Dailey and wife. When he left no word had been received regarding Mr. Dailey's six years old daughter Thelma, who was known to be with Mr. and Mrs. Dailey on the train. Press dispatches to the Advocate Tuesday said that a badly mangled body believed to be that of the little girl had been found and had been partly identified by friends of the Daileys as had the body of the woman supposed to be Mrs. Dailey. Mr. Lee will reach Washington some time Tuesday afternoon.

A message received by relatives of Mr. Oliver P. Dailey directs them to ship the bodies of Mr. Dailey and his daughter to their home in Indianapolis for burial. No word has yet been received by the relatives from Alfred Lee, a brother of Mrs. Dailey, who went to Washington Monday night to look after the disposition of the remains of the victims of the wreck.

DAILEYS IDENTIFIED.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Alfred Lee, of Cranville, O., a relative of the family telegraphs that he will today from Newark to make identification of Mrs. Dailey and daughter. Dailey's young daughter, Thelma, who with her father, Elder Dailey, are numbered among the victims. The bodies of Mrs. Dailey and the little girl were identified to be almost certainly those of the victims of the wreck. They were positively identified by Dr. Waters of Bright's hospital, with whom the family is visiting.

Columbia officials will have the investigation into the wreck in addition to the one being held up by two men.

LIABILITY ACT HELD INVALID

Important Decision Handed Down
by the Federal Court.

FIRST RULING ON THE LAW

Court Holds That in Effect the Act Would Regulate Commerce Within the State—Summary of the Decision Rendered by Judge Evans in Kentucky District Court.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 1.—The employees' liability act was held unconstitutional by Judge Evans in federal court. The decision was given in the case of the administratrix of N. C. Brooks versus the Southern Pacific railroad and is believed to be the first decision handed down in connection with this act. The cause of action occurred in Kansas. Plaintiff's husband was killed in railway accident and suit was brought under this act for $25,000 damages and an amount sufficient to cover the cost of expenses incident to death.

The court holds in brief that the act in effect would regulate commerce within the state and is therefore unconstitutional and the demurrer of the Southern Pacific railway to the action for damages was therefore sustained. In sustaining the demurrer, Judge Evans said that from every point of view the judgment of the court must be that the plaintiff has not manifested by the averments of her petition any right to recover.

Judge Evans said in part: "The act only created and imposes a liability upon certain common carriers to their employees, and in no way prescribes rules for carrying on traffic or commerce among the states, and consequently in no way regulates such commerce. If the operation of the act could in any wise affect commerce among the states, it would do so in a manner so remote, incidental and contingent as in no proper sense to afford a factor of any value in determining question now in contention. Creating new liabilities growing out of the relations of master and servant on the one hand, and regulating commerce on the other, are two things so entirely different that confusion of the judicial mind upon them is hardly to be expected under normal conditions. In the opinion of the court, the act does not regulate commerce among the states."

"While the title is not controlling in the construction of an act of congress, it may aid us in our investigation to note that the title in this instance labels the act as one relating to the liability of certain common carriers to their employees. This label, so to speak, quite accurately describes the contents of the measure, for it in fact does nothing more than fix the liability of certain common carriers to their employees."

Paper Mill Syndicate.
Appleton, Wis., Jan. 1.—A print paper mill syndicate, capitalized at several million dollars and including every newspaper mill in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, is in process of formation, according to a semi-official report. The syndicate is said to have been decided upon to take the place of the General Paper company, which was ordered out of existence by the federal courts.

AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 1.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt, who returned from Virginia Monday night, held the usual New Year's reception at the White House today. It was a brilliant function. Members of the cabinet, diplomatic corps, supreme court, heads of departments, army and navy officials and hundreds of others were received during the day.

IN USUAL WAY

New York Celebrated Advent of the New Year—Happy Throng on Broadway.

New York, Jan. 1.—The passing of the old year and advent of the new were observed here in the good old-fashioned way. Each New Yorker celebrated in accordance with his individual bent. The playhouses were filled to "standing room only;" the cafes were crowded to the limit; up and down lower Broadway moved unceasingly a noisy, happy throng, while above the deafening din pealed the chimes from Trinity and less historic spires under which congregations gave the occasion a religious significance.

Unusually cold weather continues to prevail throughout Germany, the thermometer registering 5 to 16 degrees below zero. Many persons are suffering from the cold.

Near Lacross, Va., a passenger train out of Richmond was held up by two men.

VAN ALSTYNE BABY KIDNAPPED FROM NEW YORK HOTEL.

MRS. ISABELLA VAN ALSTYNE

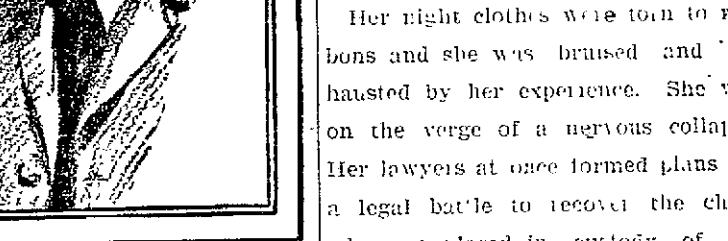

New York, Jan. 1.—More sensational than all the other incidents in the stormy matrimonial career of Mrs. Isabella W. Van Alstyne occurred at 1 a. m. when four men forced their way into her room, in the Gilsey House, seized her four-year-old son from his bed, ran down four flights of stairs, through the main lobby and disappeared with him, clad only in his night clothes, in a closed carriage.

Mrs. Van Alstyne declares she recognized her divorced husband, Guy Chase Van Alstyne, a broker, as one of the kidnapers.

of the kidnapers. She waged a fierce battle with the intruders, and two floors with her screams brought scores of patrons to the lobby, and fell prostrate on the floor of her room when the kidnapers bearing her son, who cried out appealingly to her, fled down the corridor.

Her night clothes were torn to ribbons and she was bruised and exhausted by her experience. She was on the verge of a nervous collapse. Her lawyers at once formed plans for a legal battle to recover the child, who was placed in custody of the mother by a divorce decree granted to her on November 16.

ADmits SHORTAGE OF OVER $5,000 IN BANK ACCOUNT

Baltimore, Jan. 1.—Charged with defaulting to the amount of $5,800, William H. White, paying teller of the Canton National bank, was given a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Rogers and was held in $10,000 bail. National Bank Examiner Hahn, who examined White's books, says White admitted a shortage and told the examiner he had spent the money in beautifying his home. The funds which White is alleged to have taken were savings money, and it is said that the books show a default of $1,000 as far back as January, 1905. White is about 30 years old and has been with the bank since boyhood.

ROCKEFELLER MAKES PREDICTION

DISASTROUS YEAR FOR WORKING MEN IS SEEN BY OIL MAGNATE.

Accounts For It By Attacks That Have Been Made on Corporate Interests.

New York, Jan. 1.—A disastrous year for the workmen of the United States as a corollary to the great shrinkage in values due to what he terms "unwarranted attacks on corporate interests," is predicted by John D. Rockefeller. Of the immediate outlook in the business world he says: "In making inventories for the year just ending a great many business men will find that they have suffered a loss amounting to millions of dollars through shrinkage in the values of their shareholdings during the 12 months just past. I can only account for it by the attacks that have been made upon corporate interests during the last year or two years."

YEAR'S RECORD IN FINANCE

Secretary Leslie Shaw Prepares a Comprehensive Review.

SEES NO CAUSE FOR ANXIETY

Touches Upon the Money Stringency, Currency Reform, Circulation, Car Shortage, Independent Treasury System and Expansion and Contraction—Synopsis of Report.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw has prepared a resume of the year's financial record in response to multiplied requests. In round numbers he places the receipts of the calendar year 1906 at $625,000,000 and the expenditures at $566,000,000, or an excess of receipts over expenditures of $59,000,000. As there has been no change in the tariff laws or the laws relating to internal revenue, Secretary Shaw says the large increase in receipts is due solely to the extraordinary trade activity. The total expenditure, however, for 1906, as compared with 1905, he says, shows a decrease of only $5,000,000.

Discussing the finances of the government for the six months of the present fiscal year, just closed, the secretary says that the books of the treasury show surplus receipts over expenditures of $25,000,000, as compared with a deficit of $8,000,000 for the corresponding months of the previous fiscal year. The cash in the treasury is $190,000,000, as compared with $171,000,000 a year ago, an increase of $19,000,000. The cash in the national bank depositaries is $159,000,000, as compared with $65,000,000 a year ago, an increase of $94,000,000, and the total cash in the general fund is $356,000,000, as against $242,000,000 a year ago. Against this cash there are liabilities at the present time of $13,000,000 greater than at the same time last year. The available cash balance has increased during the year $101,000,000.

During the last 12 months, the secretary continues, the money in actual circulation, exclusive of the amount in the treasury vaults, has increased more than $200,000,000. Of this increase $145,000,000 is available for bank reserve and $60,000,000 is in national banks' circulation. "This," he says, "seems to be a complete answer to the oft-repeated criticism that the independent treasury system necessarily results in contraction when money is most needed." He maintains, therefore, that existing money stringency, worldwide in its extent, is traceable in no respect to the independent treasury system of the United States. He says the manifest and admitted shortage has been caused by the unprecedented prosperity in this country and reasonable prosperity everywhere.

As to currency reform, Secretary Shaw says that in his judgment it permits adequate expansion, but that its weakness is its failure to produce contraction. The volume of money, he contends, does not respond to the volume of our business. The annual increase, he adds, may be sufficient, but there is no annual contraction during the dull summer months. "Only the unthinking and ill-advised," he says, "charge the stringency to stock and bond speculation."

The secretary adds: "There is no occasion for alarm. Our only anxiety need be lest we fail of facilities properly to garner, store, transport and market our multiplied blessings. Let every man be of good cheer and try to be conservative in everything except thankfulness."

The effect of the present car shortage on the money market also is alluded to. The secretary says: "A larger crop of cotton than usual and an unprecedented yield of cereals, fruits and every other agricultural produce has filled granaries and warehouses and congested every important railway. Nonperishable freight is shifted on side tracks to make room for that which is more important. This delayed freight, however, is owned by some one and some one's money is thus tied up. It is represented somewhere by borrowed money and the delayed shipment extends the loan. The same is true of all material on its way to factories."

The Carrier's Address FOR 1907

By EARLE HOOKER EATON

Copyright, 1906, by Earle Hooker Eaton

THE Carrier stroked the office cat
And murmured: "Hully gee!
How few of us know where we're at Or where we soon shall be!
For instance, there was Brick Van Cott.
He had a right to kick,
And most folks think he should have shot
The blamed balloonatic.

Then Brick had been a Carrier Boy
'bout a year or so,
And in love with Susan Joy
And thought it was a go.
When he popped the question Sue Refused to be his wife.
She, 'I cannot marry you Unless you rise in life.'

"Then Brick walked off and banged his head Against a thick board fence.
At first he wished that he were dead,
But later got more sense.
'I'll just surprise this durned old town,'
He said, with curling lip.
'They cannot keep a good man down.
I'll follow Susie's tip.'

One day while Brick was on his route
His arm received a whack,
Then he felt as if a boot
Had kicked him in the back.
Lost his footing mighty soon
And tried on air to dance.
An anchor from a big balloon Hooked him through the pants!

"Leggo! Leggo!" he gave a roar
As he began his flight.
'I'm not a fish, and, furthermore,
I didn't even bite!'
But up he kited toward the stars,
With comic stunts and capers,
As if Uranus, Neptune, Mars,
Were on his route for papers.

Set in air, still undismayed,
Hoped his pants would rip.
Feet he hoped and prayed
Would never lose their grip.
'It's luck if I don't plow Ground up quite a bit.
To lose that anchor now;
Much attached to it!

"The big balloon went sailing through
The street that was his route,
And far below Brick caught a view
Of Binks and Brown and Clute.
'If they don't get their papers quick,'
He thought, with half a sob,
'They're always sure to make a kick,
But I'm still on the job!'

A paper, spiral shape,
Its earthward trek
Like, landed on the nape
Of Binks' neck.
At once came flying down,
Gentle, warning whirr,
The ears of Clute and Brown Came, 'Your paper, sir!'

"A hundred copies thus were dropped
By Brick in his queer flight.
From stores and houses people popped
To view the novel sight.
But soon the crowded street was cleared
And men in terror cried.
An auto, running wild, appeared,
With Susan Joy inside!

On dipped toward the street,
The girl flew past
From the auto seat
Her firm and fast,
Ahead, with crazy bound,
Sought its goal
And wind itself around
An iron trolley pole.

"You told me I must rise in life," Brick cooed in Susie's ear.
'I've riz, and now you'll be my wife?'
She whispered, 'Yes, you dear!'
The anchor felt the added load.
There came a sudden tear,
And Brick and Sue fell to the road
But little worse for wear.

er's feat was published soon,
Such an odd romance—
Papers by Balloon Hanging by the Pants!
showed up next day,
ick, he nearly died!
wanted Brick to pay for his ride!

"A paper route's no easy trick,
But Carriers never shirk.
The big balloon eloped with Brick,
But he kept right at work.
ere on the job whate'er befall, It's 'Get there! No delay!'
and so we hope that you will all Remember US today."

INVESTIGATION

Of Disastrous Railway Wreck Being Conducted by Officials.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Officials of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are conducting an investigation of the collision between the freight train and the Frederick local Sunday night near this city. General Superintendent Todd exonerated Milton W. Phillips, the operator at the Takoma block station, the last signal station that the equipment train passed before crashing into the passenger train at Terra Cotta. The superintendent declared Phillips was obeying instructions when he went home at 6:30 o'clock, leaving the "double green" signal burning. While making no positive charge, Superintendent Todd intimated that the burden of the blame would fall upon the engineer and crew of the extra. The five members of the crew who were arrested shortly after the accident are now being held to await the result of the official investigation. They are Harry H. Hildebrand, engineer; Ira C. McClelland, fireman; Frank F. Hoffmeier, conductor; Ralph Rumer, brakeman, and William A. Norris, baggagemaster.
The most conservative estimate of the dead is 52, with three scores of injured in the hospitals or at their homes.

PURE FOOD LAW NOW IN EFFECT

Washington, Jan. 1.—Commenting on the pure food law, in effect today,
Secretary Wilson said:

"After a struggle of 15 years, pure food is at last a reality. It will do more than anything else to bring this country into the foremost place in the world's commercial race. American goods will command and even dominate the markets of the world.

"Thousands of industries in this country will have to comply with the provisions of the law or go out of business. The law will prevent fake and spurious food stuffs and drugs from being put on the market without bearing the proper labels.

"The wide range and latitude which is given the secretary in laying down specific regulations and enforcing them will aid in keeping the markets of the United States free from all deleterious articles. It is with the manufacturers that we shall deal principally in enforcing the law. The result will be that when one makes a purchase of food stuffs or drugs, he can rest assured that he is getting just what he is paying for. The proper label must be pasted on every package setting forth its contents.
Where alcohol, opium or other narcotics is an ingredient, the amount must be set forth.

"Whiskey interests will probably be affected more than any other in this country. A great fight is being put up by 'blenders' against their being compelled to label their product 'imitation whiskey.' This, they say, will simply drive them out of business.
'Straight' whiskey men insist that the provisions of the law will be carried out to the letter. Violations of the pure food law are punishable by heavy fines or imprisonment or both."

The Charming Woman

Is not necessarily one of perfect form and feature. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters skin, beautiful complexion. Guarant-

THIS AND THAT

The state law provides that no person can operate a stationary steam boiler or engine of more than thirty horse power without a license. Manufacturers are also amenable to prosecution if they employ unlicensed engineers.

Time for those good resolutions.

Here's hoping that 1907 will be as busy and prosperous as 1906.

Merchants feel that the local public made up its mind that it could safely trade in Newark, all right.

'Bout time for the old resident to see a robin—or a flock of wild geese.

Seven 7777777777777777. Can you remember it?

Instead of making seven resolutions and breaking all of them, make one good one and keep it.

May 1907 bring peace, happiness and abundant prosperity to every member of the Advocate family of readers.

So far, the sturdy infant, 1907, looks very much like its predecessor.

One way to make Newark boom and prosper in 1907 as she never has before, is for everybody to pull together. Let the "knockers" sit in the rear, please.

The woman who has a new diamond ring, always has lots of trouble at a party with her hair.

The average girl who goes to cooking school seems to have an idea that her future husband is going to live on angel-food cake.

The man who looks back with such longing to his old life on the farm, seldom looks sincerely enough to go back.

When our mothers taught us to be kind to the aged, they had no intention of including patriarchal eggs in the admonition.

The first of the year is a time to look forward, not backward.

So far as presidential messages are concerned, these days, if you don't see what you want, ask for it.

As long as country produce sells at prevailing prices, the farmers will have no trouble paying their taxes.

Did you watch the New Year in, or did you slumber sweetly when the infant 1907 made its appearance?

If all who get on who should to day, Newark is loaded so.

The snow

not appreciated by the average human, but while slipping around clawing chunks out of the atmosphere, and sometimes jarring the hemisphere, there was great destruction going on in the insect world. The entomologists now have it that insect life in its embryonic stage, can stand almost any degree of dry cold, but are susceptible to the action of 'wet-cold,' like the melting of snow, sleep and alternate rapid freezing and thawing, and such conditions have certainly prevailed recently, thereby doing an immense amount of good

BOND ISSUE FAILS TO CARRY

LESS THAN HALF VOTE OF THE CITY WAS POLLED ON MONDAY.

Proposition to Issue $250,000 More Water Works Bonds Fails by 277 Votes.

The proposition to issue water works bonds in the sum of $250,000 was defeated at Monday's special election, the measure failing to carry by 277 votes. The vote polled at this election was somewhat heavier than last year. On December 31 there were 464 votes more on the proposition than were polled in the election on the proposition submitted last year. A total of 2065 votes was cast December 31, which compared with the vote for secretary of state last November, shows that less than half of the city's total vote was registered at Monday's election.

The following is the vote by precincts:

FIRST WARD.
	For.	Against.	Total.
Prec. A	75	76	151
Prec. B	48	58	122
Prec. C	62	57	113

Prec. A	66	52	129
Prec. B	81	61	152
Prec. C	75	65	149

Prec. B	85	44	129
Prec. C	82	71	155
Prec. D	64	44	111
Total	1100	903	2065

The total vote cast required a vote in favor of the proposition of 1377 in order to secure the requisite two-thirds majority. As it only received 1100 affirmative votes the proposition failed to carry by 277.

The $200,000 bond proposition of last year, on which the people voted December 11, 1905, was defeated by 50 votes.

AGENT TACKLED TWO ROBBERS

York, Neb., Jan. 1.—C. C. Morris, night agent for the Burlington, grappled with two masked robbers and beat them off. One stood guard over him while the other rifled the cash drawer. Grabbing a fire shovel, Morris struck his guard a stunning blow. Then he grappled with the robber at the drawer, who had his hands full of money. They fought their way to the platform and were engaged in a terrible struggle when the other robber recovered. He came to the platform, called to his companion, and they ran away. The robbers secured a few dollars.

The police have learned that Stinson is wanted for burglary and larceny in Terre Haute and a general alarm has been sent out for him. Stinson was traced to Chicago where it was found that he had left at midnight December 27, over the Lake Shore railroad. He left a wife and two children in Terre Haute.

The prisoner cannot explain his movements except to say that some one must have given him "kick-out drops." The police of Terre Haute were notified by Chief Foley of the capture.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butler, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. AMUSEMENTS

THE CLAY BAKER.

"The Clay Baker" will be the play at the Auditorium tonight. This is an exceptionally strong one and was written by Panette Stevens Kelly. It tells the story of a potter who has spent his life, wealth and energy in discovering an unbreakable china. The play is a powerful one and thoroughly American. Its plot is not complicated, though very interesting and well designed to keep the closest attention of an audience. The presenting company is headed by William V. Mong, a young actor who in the part of Peter Denis, the clay baker, displays great ability in the interpretation of such a difficult character. Everywhere he is greeted with much appreciation. Mr. Mong gives a performance which appeals to the higher senses and to one's sense of justice. He is supported by a capable company of splendid players.

HIS MAJESTY AND THE MAID.

When an actress is said to be charming she has much in her favor. When she can play comedy, she is capable of amusing her auditors, and an actress who can thrill one through and through, who can make one feel great emotions through her own vitality and power has much in her favor in her search for fame. But from one who combines all these qualities much may be expected. In Mary Emerson whom Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman present here for your consideration, her managers believe they are offering you an artist of extraordinary ability. Young, and of much beauty, she combines all of the qualities that go to make a fine actress. Her comedy work has been likened to the delicate touch of Maude Adams, who, by the way, Miss Emerson resembles in feature in a remarkable degree. Her power of characterization is greatly developed (witness her portrayal of the boy in the third act) and her emotional work thoroughly satisfying. She will soon be here, Thursday, January 3, in Samuel Lewis' charming play, "His Majesty and the Maid."

SHORT AND SHORTY.

The musical comedy team at the Orpheum theater this week is one of the funniest combinations ever seen at that popular amusement house. Mr. Short is the tall man of the team, but the moment "Shorty" appears everyone knows who he is without referring to a program. He is one of the most comical midgets on the vaudeville stage, and his makeups and comedy skits are decidedly clever. His inimitable whistle is a feature of his work, and it comes at most unexpected points. The little man is not only funny on the stage, but at his hotel after the performances he is continually the center of a group of men who are kept in a roar at his peculiarities and trite

STEPHENS LECTURE TONIGHT.

At St. Paul's church this evening Frank Stephens will deliver his celebrated lecture "Progress and Poverty" under the auspices of the International Lecture Association.

Tom L. Johnson, mayor of Cleveland, says: "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the worth and ability of Mr. Frank Stephens. He is thoroughly grounded on the subject of single tax, and is a logical and forceful speaker. I am sure no one can hear Mr. Stephens' lecture and not be impressed with the great advantage to be gained by the adoption of the single tax."

KENYON GLEE CLUB.

The Kenyon Mandolin and Glee club, of 35 musicians, will appear at Taylor Hall on next Friday evening, January 4. The club has appeared here before and each time were greeted with large audiences who thoroughly enjoyed their programs. It is understood that they have prepared an unusually interesting list of numbers for this time and will probably be well patronized.

Former County Treasurer.

The body of George Penn, a London dog fancier, was followed to the grave by four fine bull terriers. They wore black coats, on which were the words in white letters, "Following our master to his last resting place."

WILL D. HARRIS GOES TO AKRON

NAME OF HIS SUCCESSOR AS PARK MANAGER NOT YET ANNOUNCED.

New Ticket Agent—Limited Service Starts January 7.—Recons for Trolley Trainsmen.

Mr. Will D. Harris, who resigned as park manager and division manager agent of the I. C. & E. on December 1, left Tuesday for Akron, where he has accepted the position of traffic and park manager for the Northern Ohio Traction company. The name of Mr. Harris' successor here is not announced by the management.

Mr. Harris left at 1:35 Tuesday for Cleveland where he takes up his duties as traffic manager for the Northern Ohio Traction company's line. The road comprises 150 miles of electrical road. It is under control of the Everett-Moore syndicate.

New Ticket Agent.

H. J. Alexander, who has been connected with the interurban electrical force at the station at this point, for the past several years, as assistant ticket agent, has been appointed to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of A. C. Larson, resigned to accept the position of soliciting passenger agent for the western division. Mr. Ralph S. Orr, for some time past clerk and stenographer has been appointed assistant ticket agent.

New Limited Service.

Owing to unavoidable delay, the limited service on the Columbus, Newark & Zanesville division of the Columbus, Indiana & Eastern Traction railway, will not go in effect until Monday, January 7. There will be two limited trains each way daily between Zanesville and Columbus. West bound trains will leave Newark at 7:45 a. m. and 1:45 p. m., and east bound trains will leave Newark for Zanesville at 11:05 and 5:05 p. m.

These cars will be parlor cars, supplied with all modern conveniences, and passengers will not be required to pay any extra charge. Baggage will be carried free and the cars will connect with the Granville cars at Pine and West Main streets. The time required to make the trip between Columbus and Zanesville will be two hours, and between Newark and Columbus one hour and five minutes. Passengers desiring to go through from Columbus can have 50 minutes lay over in Columbus and get a limited train on the other divisions.

Service to Lake.

It is given out that the service between Hebron and Buckeye Lake will remain as it is at present during the next thirty days, and longer if conditions warrant.

For the Trainmen.

The management of the I. C. & E. at this point are engaged in a very laudable enterprise, and one that will be appreciated by all the train men of the road. For a long time it has been very forcibly demonstrated that a rest or waiting room was necessary for the employees coming in off their runs and going out. The management is now engaged in fitting up the basement under the waiting room at the interurban station with lockers for the clothes and paraphernalia of the trainmen, lavatory, etc.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS

Cut These Out and Paste Them Up Where You Will See Them Every Day.

I will not be careless about my health.

I will never allow a cold to wear off—it wears away the lungs instead.

I will remember that pneumonia can be prevented by taking in time Father John's Medicine.

I will avoid "Patent Medicines," "Cough Cures," and so-called "Immediate Relief Remedies."

I will remember that what is mistaken for relief is instead deadening of the nerves by the opium and other poisonous drugs which the majority of them contain, which weaken the body while the disease remains and gets a stronger hold.

I will remember that Father John's Medicine is neither a "Patent Medicine" nor a "Cough Syrup," and that it is all pure nourishment, free from Opium, Morphine or other Poisonous Drugs.

I will remember that Father John's Medicine builds up and makes strength, at the same time cures the cold and all throat and lung troubles.

When the Clock Struck Twelve

A New Year's Story
By Louis J. Stellman

Copyright, 1906, by Louis J. Stellman

"In just two hours," said McKee to Rover, there being no one else in whom to confide, "I shall have proved the fallacy of signs." Rover wagged his tail in appreciative silence. He did not know that it was 10 o'clock p. m. on the last day of the year and that the fates as read by his master's friends had decreed that Dudley Yates McKee, bachelor, should become a Benedict before the New Year. Shortly after the present year began the first dire prophecy was made by reason of three plum stones on McKee's plate. He thought nothing of this, but when several days later an amateur card reader made a similar prediction McKee was mildly amused at the coincidence, and when within another month a friend who affected palmistry drew the same augury from McKee's palm the latter began to ponder. At a spiritualistic seance which he was enjoined to attend an alleged "spirit" again volunteered the information that McKee would marry within the current year, and later a dabbler in astrology to whom McKee confided his growing alarm consulted the stars and verified the matter as a foreordained event in his friend's horoscope.

McKee's uneasiness grew apace. He dismissed the idea of collusion between his friends and began to fight shy of anything that threatened a possible emotional entanglement. Now, seated in his bachelor quarters in slippers and robe, he contemplated with triumphant relief the flight of time toward deliverance from what he had come to regard as a pursuing destiny.

He toasted his feet comfortably on the fender and surveyed retrospectively his thirty-two years of care free and irresponsible existence, filled with many of the lighter loves of early youth and the delightfully innocuous flirtations of later manhood. Dudley Yates McKee was good to look upon, and his pleasing exterior was a frank and undisguised index to his inner self. Women liked him thoroughly, and, unlike most bachelors, he had remained single purely from choice. There were moments when he would acknowledge to himself that marriage had compensations, when life seemed a trifle empty, but on the whole he enjoyed his freedom and was content.

The grandfather's clock in the corner struck a single chime to mark the half hour, and McKee, aroused from his reverie, was refilling his pipe when a slight rustle in the adjoining room startled him.

"Rather early for burglars," he thought as he picked up the poker and arose to investigate. He pushed a button in the wall and flooded the room with light. Then he stood quite still and ejaculated "By Jove!" in a bewildered sort of way, for shrinking against the wall was a young girl, terror and embarrassment blinding in the imploring glance she turned toward him. Perfunctorily McKee noted that she was a very pretty girl and that her hair, disordered as it was, was of a reddish brown tint he had never seen before, but instantly classed as prefer-seated," he continued, "and we'll talk it over."

The girl sank into the chair he placed for her and wept softly into a ridiculous looking square of lace. McKee watched her curiously.

"I don't know what you think," she burst out in sudden defiance, "and I don't care. It's too late now. I ran in here to escape a man. He insulted me. I was alone on the street. I just got here tonight. And I—hid in this room before you came in, and then I couldn't get out," she ended, sobbing afresh.

"I am Dudley McKee," said that gentleman quietly, "and I'll take pleasure in seeing you safe home after you have rested a bit. There's no harm done, except that you're very much excited."

"I have no home—now," said the girl dully. "I ran away—to go on the stage. My guardian was not good to me. He wanted me to marry him—and I—had to leave. Oh, I know you don't believe me!" she added piteously. Some impulse made McKee go over to her and stroke the disordered hair softly. She looked up, startled, and their eyes met with an instantaneous flash of meaning. Then she blushed, and her eyes fell.

"GO ON," HE COMMANDED.

Thus they remained, motionless, for a time, each trying to realize, to grasp, the wondrous newness of the thing that had come into their hearts during the instant when their glances met and blended in an unspoken word. With a quick movement McKee bent over and kissed the trembling lips. Even as he did so he felt her arms about his neck.

The ringing of a bell interrupted them like a hideous crash of sound. The girl leaped from her chair and fled from him, her face alight with sudden shame.

"You can't go now," said McKee firmly. "You would be seen. Whoever it is, I shall get rid of him at once."

He closed the sliding doors and, re-entering his study, opened the outer door. There stood the Rev. Ashton Wright.

"You left a note saying you wished to see me this morning," said the visitor. "I was passing and saw your light. If you will excuse the untimeliness of the hour—"

McKee stared at him stupidly. "It is late," he said.

"What is?" asked the astounded clergyman.

"I wanted to see you about quite another matter," said McKee, speaking rapidly. "I've forgotten what it was. It doesn't matter. But just now I want you to marry me and ask no questions."

He glanced at the clock. It marked 11:40.

The Rev. Ashton Wright stared at his host in blank amazement.

McKee opened the sliding doors. "Come!" he called to the girl, and she ran to his side.

"Go on," he commanded.

The Rev. Mr. Wright opened his mouth and then closed it again, remembering McKee's injunction. He knew the young man sufficiently well not to question his motives. And so, after a preliminary gasp or two, he stumbled through the wedding service.

When it was finished, all three looked at one another as though newly awakened from a dream.

Just then the clock struck 12.

New Year's in St. Petersburg.

In St. Petersburg the czar used to break the ice in the Neva on New Year's day, an ancient ceremony accompanied with pomp and ritual, but his imperial majesty has abandoned that custom since Jan. 13, 1905 (the Russian New Year is twelve days later than ours), when a saluting battery "accidentally" fired a charge of grape at him. The little house built at the ice to shelter the czar during the ceremony was hit by the grape.

Only the "divinity which doth beudge a kung" saved the emperor's life.

WORKMEN

To Receive Concessions From the French Government.

Paris, Jan. 1.—The writers who review the events of the year and indulge in forecasts of the future unite in anticipating that 1907 will witness the most important developments in the continuation of the struggle which the French democracy is waging against the old regime. The end of clericalism, with the separation of church and state, is an accomplished fact and no longer an issue, although echoes of this conflict probably will be heard for a long time to come, and the extreme Socialists are anxious to press the war against capitalism. Led by M. Jaures, the aim of the Socialists is distinctly the expropriation of property, but no one imagines there will in the near future be a regime of pure Socialism in France.

The cabinet stands committed to supplement the weekly rest-day law and the employers' liability law with an eight-hour labor law, old-age pensions, the gradual purchase of railroads by the state and the transfer of the heaviest burdens of taxation upon the rich by the imposition of income and inheritance taxes, and as a result even the government bonds in which French savings are largely invested are threatened.

INAUGURATION

Of Charles Hughes as Governor of the Empire State.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 1.—A brilliant military ball under the auspices of Squadron A of New York, as military escort to Governor-elect Hughes, began the festivities and ceremonies incidental to the inauguration of the new governor of the state and the assumption of office by the new state administration and legislature. The program of today included a military parade to escort the new governor to the capitol, where he took the oath of office; the inauguration ceremonies in the assembly chamber at noon; a reception by Governor Hughes in the executive chamber after the inauguration, and the usual public reception in the afternoon at the executive mansion.

Receivers Removed.

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 1.—F. E. Dewey and J. L. Dantzer, who were recently appointed receivers of the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City railroad, were ousted from possession of the property on an order issued from the chancery court. The action supporting the action of Dec. 26 was due to the fact that an application for an appeal was made to the supreme court. The bond in the case was fixed at $100,000. The old management ousted Dec. 26 again assumed charge of the property.

Indian Warrior Cremated.

Lawton, Okla., Jan. 1.—Senator Everett Tino, a venerable member of the Geronimo band of Apache Indians, who was one of Geronimo's lieutenants in the Apache fight against the Mexicans and United States soldiers in Arizona, was burned to death in his teepee on the Fort Sill reservation, six miles northeast of here. When Tino retired he forgot to put out his candle and the flame ignited the bed clothing. The entire teepee and contents were destroyed by the fire.

Soldiers Give Evidence.

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 1.—The official investigation of the disturbance between a streetcar conductor and negro soldiers the night before Christmas has been completed, and it is learned that Private Stewart, Troop F, Ninth cavalry, threw bricks into the electric car. Private Stewart will be court-martialed. There was no hesitation on the part of either the negro or the white soldiers in telling what they knew, and the investigation developed that Stewart jumped through a window and threw bricks, although he did not take part in the fight in the car.

PROSPECT FOR NEWARK REAL ESTATE

An Advocate man called upon a dozen of the city's most prominent real estate dealers with the object of ascertaining their views on the possibilities of Newark along real estate lines during the coming year. In substance, their opinions were the same, all expressing belief in a most prosperous season for Newark.

One real estate man said that while real estate is necessarily quiet at this time of the year, he had reasons to believe that the coming spring would witness fully as much of a stir in realty as did last season and that the prospects are that much selling will be to outsiders; that is, to farmers desiring to locate in the city. It is said that while property is highly valued over the city, the demand will be strong enough to overcome present high prices.

Another dealer remarked that the many sales of allotments of large tracts, which have been carried on about this part of the state during the past three years, have caused property to take an unusual rise because of the fact that suburban lots sold so cheaply that it started "a kind of buying fever" and all property went up as a result. He said, further, that in his opinion, property near the public square was considerably too high while that located near the outskirts was placed at nearer its actual value. "However," he said, "Newark property, taken as a whole, is proportionately no higher than that of adjoining towns and I feel that the fact of its being actually worth what is asked for it will make the coming season one of the best."

There are now 300 beautiful squares, 100 council parks and breathing places, 12 royal parks and 120 borough gardens in London. London is said to be the greenest large city in the world.

Attributing his failure at the last French elections to the frequent breaking down of his motor car, a candidate has brought an action against a motor manufacturer, and claims $2,000 damages.

A remarkable bird found in Mexico is the bee martin, which has a trick of ruffling up the feathers on the top of its head into the exact semblance of a beautiful flower, and when a bee comes along to sip honey from the supposed flower it is snapped up by the bird.

LETTERS HELD BY THE HOLMANS

SAID TO CONTAIN EVIDENCE TO BE OFFERED AT TRIAL OF HARRY THAW.

Doctor Says Prisoner is Afflicted With Delusional Insanity of a Chronic Nature.

New York, Jan. 1.—It will not be necessary for District Attorney William Traverser Jerome to subpoena Mrs. Clarence J. Nesbitt-Holman, mother of Mrs. Florence Evelyn Nesbitt-Thaw, as a witness when Harry Thaw is placed on trial to answer to a charge of murder for the killing of Stanford White. Mrs. Holman intends to come to New York of her own volition. Armed with letters and other evidence she will come here January 20, accompanied by her husband and her son, Howard Nesbitt.

"It will be needless for them to subpoena Mrs. Holman," said her husband in Pittsburg, "for Mrs. Holman, her son Howard, and I will be in attendance at the trial, ready to give any information desired concerning the case. I have certain letters bearing on the case locked up in a safe deposit vault. I cannot disclose their nature at this time except to say that the contents are highly important. We also realize that perhaps the evidence will not strengthen the defense."

That Thaw is afflicted with delusional insanity and that his insanity is of chronic and incurable form; that the better part of his family recognized his mental condition and had made every effort to induce the young man's mother to have him committed to an institution, was the gist of a statement made by Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton.

Dr. Hamilton's attention was called to the fact that he had been quoted as saying that Thaw was more insane than Czolgosz. He denied that he made such a statement. He stated, however, that his views regarding Thaw, made in the original report to Former Judge Olcott, were to the effect that Thaw for a long time had suffered from a form of delusional insanity and was insane at the time he killed White.

VIRGINIA HARNED COMING.

FIGHTERS WHO MEET THIS AFTERNOON.

"JIM" GANS

Tonopah, Nev., Jan. 1.—Herman and Gans meet here this afternoon. The former is a quick, active, good natured youngster, who looks as if he may keep Gans busy. Possibly he can box a little more than "Batting" Nelson. The chances are that he will not stick so long as Nelson. If the negro hustles him from the start and fights with as much earnestness as he did at Goldfield.

There has been some talk that Gans has been careless in his training. There has not been much evidence of anything of the sort. He cannot afford to be careless. The conditions of the fight are such that he must make weight, and he cares enough for his prestige to hold it as long as possible, for he has done better financially since his fight with Nelson than he had for some time. Gans may be careless with his money after he gets it, but, like most other persons, he is very willing to get it.

There are plenty of persons in Tonopah, a mining camp in a wilderness of snow on Nevada hills, who think Herman will make a fairly good showing to get another good fight, and there may come a time when he will be able to whip Gans, but if he is clever enough to beat the champion in this match he will not wish the great portion of the population here as well as elsewhere.

It is fair to assume that there will be more real boxing in this fight than there was in his match with Nelson, for Herman is not so inclined to hold as the rugged Dane and assuredly is not quite so good at "butting" as Nelson proved to be.

That the match will draw something

Attempt to Wreck Train.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 1.—Details of a plan to wreck the Northern Pacific westbound flyer near Big Timber have just been made public. Unknown miscreants placed fishplates and steel springs on the rails, which were discovered and removed just as the north coast train hove in sight, traveling at the rate of 50 miles an hour. The Burlington passenger had gone over the road an hour before. It is believed to have been the work of men who the night before robbed the store of the Columbus Mercantile company, and the object is believed to have been robbery of passengers and express cars.

The Advocate Book Bindery will supply you with blank books for 1907.

Rajah Killed.

The Hague, Jan. 1.—The famous Rajah of Goa, island of Celebes, Dutch East Indies, who for many years caused trouble to the government authorities, was found dead in a ravine.

"KID" HERMAN

of a crowd seems fairly certain, as about all the miners in the neighborhood will attend, as well as a number of other visitors from other points in California and Nevada. The promoters of the affair are sanguine that they will have a large enough attendance to make it pay them, and that has been their greatest concern from the start.

ODDS ON GANS,

With Little Herman Coin in Sight. The Great Mill.

Tonopah, Nev., Jan. 1.—Joe Gans, lightweight champion of the world, and Herman Langfield, better known in the ring as "Kid Herman" of Chicago, will meet here this afternoon before the Casino Athletic club for the championship title. The contest will begin at 3 o'clock, Pacific time. It may be stated positively that both fighters will be at weight. That promoters of the bout will incur a financial loss is a foregone conclusion, as advance sales have fallen below all calculations. But few sporting men of national reputation are here, and betting has been almost stagnant. Gans is practically a prohibitive favorite. The ruling odds now are 10 to 4, with very little Herman money in sight. The fighters will weigh in at 1 p. m. and the articles call for 133 pounds. Straight Margie's of Queensberry rules will govern the contest. This will permit fighting in the clinches as long as one or the other has one arm free. Jack Welch of San Francisco will be the referee. The fight will be for a $20,000 purse, 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser. A heavy snow has fallen and the weather is cold.

PRESIDENT COREY IS NOW IN PARIS

SAYS THAT HE WILL NOT MARRY MISS GILMAN IN THE IMMEDIATE FUTURE.

Operative Ambitions of Young Woman Who Will Wed Steel Trust Magnate.

Paris, Jan. 1.—William Ellis Corey, president of the United States Steel Corporation has arrived here and in response to many inquiries as to whether he was here for the purpose of marrying Miss Mabelle Gilman issued the following statement:

"W. E. Corey, president of the United States Steel Corporation, has arrived here. Any statement that he is to be married to Miss Gilman in the immediate future or during his present visit to Europe is untrue."

Despite this statement many of Corey's acquaintances are firmly convinced that he steel magnate has visited Paris to complete arrangements for marrying the young actress and to discuss her plans for going on the operative stage.

Miss Gilman since coming to Europe has developed in to a most remarkable soprano under the tutelage of Jean de Reszke.

This ambition of Miss Gilman may, say friends of the steel magnate, result in a postponement of the marriage beyond "the immediate future," because Mr. Corey is said to look with disfavor of the idea of his wife appearing upon the stage, even though it be in grand opera.

It has been rumored, however, that Mr. Corey and Miss Gilman have arranged to be quietly married in Miss Gilman's rooms, and that probably the United States Consul-General will be the only outsider present, with the possible exception of Jean de Reszke.

A report is circulated to the effect that the steel king and his actress bride will return to the United States shortly after their marriage. It is stated that the couple will reach New York some time in February.

Why So Weak?

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life. Away—Newark People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is a Newark testimony to prove it.

Wesley Rowland, express driver, living on Washington street, near Mill street, East Newark, O., says:

"Many a time my back pained me so and was so weak that I could not load my wagon. If I stooped to pick up anything it was all I could do to straighten up. My back pained me so at night's that I could not sleep. I would wake up again with terrible pain through the back and shoulders as if I were in a cramp. I tried liniments and various remedies but found nothing that helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Crayton's drug store. Three boxes were all that were required to cure me and the cure has been permanent. That was two years ago and I have had no trouble of the kind since."

EVENTS IN 1906

A Year's Record From January to December.

DAILY HAPPENINGS.

Havoc of Storms, Volcanic Eruptions and Earthquakes.

A NOTABLE OBITUARY ROLL.

Losses of Life and Treasure by Fire, Accidents and Violences of Nature. Miscellaneous Affairs, Personal, Political and Sporting Items—A Chronological Review.

Destruction of life and property in both hemispheres caused by the forces of nature has been a notable characteristic of the year 1906. In March occurred the earthquake upheaval on the island of Formosa. Early in April Vesuvius burst forth, destroying life and property for miles around the volcanic mountain. A few days later the San Francisco earthquake and fire calamity startled the world with its almost unparalleled horrors.

In August an earthquake devastated the coast cities of Chile, causing heavy loss of life, especially in Valparaiso. In September a destructive typhoon swept over Hongkong and a cyclone caused great destruction on the gulf coast, notably at Mobile and Pensacola. A fierce West India hurricane in October destroyed life and property on the coasts of Venezuela, Honduras, Salvador and Cuba. Landslides, cloudbursts and floods, shipwrecks, fires and railway accidents added to the year's record of victims. It is estimated that over 50,000 lives were sacrificed the first ten months by the manifestations of nature's fury and the accidents of travel on sea and land.

The obituary record of the year includes Carl Schurz, Mrs. Jefferson Davis, Henrik Ibsen, General Joseph Wheeler, General William R. Shafter, Senator Arthur Pue Gorman, Christian IX. of Denmark, Adelaide Ristori, John Lawrence Toole, Russell Sage and Marshall Field.

KELLEY HOUSE AT BLACK HAND

CAREFULLY INSPECTED MONDAY BY COUNTY CORONER DR. MARRIOTT.

As Yet the Result of Analysis of Kelley's Stomach Has Not Been Made Public.

Coroner L. L. Marriott, deputizing an Advocate reporter to accompany him, left Monday afternoon at 2:45 for Black Hand to make a search of the residence and premises of the late David Kelley. Owing to the fact that the coroner will have nothing to say, as yet, upon the examination of the man's stomach, the result of the search of the house cannot be given by the reporter.

After a half hour ride over the worst road in the county, when dusty mud and hills are considered, the coroner and reporter arrived at the Kelley home settled in a desolate gully between two big hills. The house is surrounded with trees, large pines in front and on one side. After entering through a window (the coroner had no key) and exploring the surroundings to some extent with matches, a kerosene lamp was found which furnished light for a time. Everything in the deserted house was as it had been left at the death of Kelley, about two weeks ago. The bed on which he died, lay just as Kelley had dropped upon it at the evening of his death. On a table in the same room with the bed sat a plate with crumbs and a knife, where the dead man had eaten his breakfast on the fatal morning. Beyond, in the kitchen, were found pans, dishes, and cups, containing molded remains of food prepared several weeks ago, and on a kitchen window lay a half smoked pipe of tobacco.

Clothing and other articles of wearing apparel and belongings of the dead man were gone over during the investigation, but nothing is to be made public until Coroner Marriott has either received, or desires to announce, a result of the examination of the stomach.

The supposition was at the time of Kelley's death that the man died of strychnine poisoning.

A Wonderful Happening.
Port Byron, N. Y., has witnessed one of the most remarkable cases of healing ever recorded. Amos F. King, of that place says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured a sore on my leg with which I had suffered over 80 years. I am now eighty-five." Guaranteed to cure all sores, by F. D. Hall, druggist, 25c.

AN INCREASE IN TRACKAGE

HELD TO BE THE ONLY MEANS OF RELIEVING RAILWAY CONGESTION.

Ohio Commission Files Report—The Equipment on Railroads Increased 10 Per Cent.

Columbus, O., Jan. 1. — The state railroad commission, in its first annual report filed with the governor, says that "too much time is wasted by trains lying on sidetracks and there is much evidence to the effect that roads are greatly congested, even with the present equipment, and it is a natural conclusion that were the equipment increased the congestion would be greater, and it would therefore seem that permanent relief can only be secured through increase in trackage." The report shows that while the equipment on Ohio railroads has increased about 10 per cent, the amount of track mileage gained but 3 1/2 per cent. This includes switches and sidings. Extensions of time for the equipment of cars with airbrakes have expired. All trains must now have air on at least 75 per cent of the cars, under the law passed by the last legislature. This has sent to the scrap pile many old cars not considered worth the expense of air equipment. For the first time control over interurban roads is exercised by the state. Fifty such lines have been inspected. Where defects were found in facilities or methods they have been remedied. The commission says: "It is probably fair to assume that some of the railroads in Ohio are endeavoring to handle a double-track business on a single-track line. In other words, more miles of second track should have been laid in the last few years, and the carriers have been derelict in not even equipping themselves in this respect for the natural increase of tonnage that ordinary intelligence might have foreseen."

GENERAL NEWS OF BUCKEYEDOM

LOGAN SALOON KEEPER JOSEPH BROOKER CLAIMS HE WAS BOYCOTTED.

Hundred Thousand for Art—Charge Against Soldiers—Food for Fire—Good Roads.

Logan, O., Jan. 1.—Joseph Brooker, saloonkeeper filed a petition in Licking county court of common pleas asking $2,000 damages from a dozen members of the Ohio Liquor league. He alleges that the defendants unlawfully combined together for the purpose of boycotting him, that they have prevented him from purchasing beer, bread and buns, ice and other necessary articles, and that he has been compelled to purchase from business houses of other cities, to his great detriment and damage. He was granted a temporary injunction against defendants under $300 bond. It is said that Brooker was a member of the same league and that he violated an agreement to sell no large glasses of beer.

Hundred Thousand For Art.
Cincinnati, O., Jan. 1. — A gift of $100,000 to be added to the endowment fund of the institution was presented to the Cincinnati Art museum by Mrs. Mary M. Emory, widow of the late Thomas J. Emory. In memory of the latter the donation was made. The only condition attached to the gift is that the trustees shall throw the museum open each Saturday for the free admission of the public. At present a small fee is charged on all days of the week. The present thus becomes a New Year's gift to the people of Cincinnati.

Charge Against Soldier.
Chillicothe, O., Jan. 1.—A telegram from Sheriff Latta Morrison at Tacoma, Wash., says he started home with Benjamin Holden, alias Rufus Holden, who is wanted in Ohio for having too many wives. One of them, who lived at Kingston, this county, he married only a few days before his regiment was ordered to Alaska, he being a soldier in the regular army.

Food For Fire.
Cincinnati, O., Jan. 1. — The main building of the Philip Carey Manufacturing company's asbestos plant at Lockland, a suburb of this city, was completely destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $35,000. Bruce Van Zant, a millwright, was fatally burned. Spontaneous combustion is said to have been the cause of the fire.

THE merit of our School Shoes is unquestioned. We have been exceedingly careful in the selection of this very important part of our stock. We realize that it is no use for us to sell a shoe to Boys or Girls going to school, that will not wear well. It would be folly to do so. Our reputation is, in a measure, due to the attention given this particular line. As in the past, we expect to sell for a long time to come, the kind of school shoes that will insure your continued custom. All we ask is a trial of our school shoes. Afterwards you'll come here of your own accord.
